Narrated by Kathleen Turner, this affecting documentary highlights the work that diplomats do across the world. They represent our front line of defense abroad and, truly, are our peacemakers.

While our attention on U.S. foreign policy often focuses on failures, scandals, and political controversies, the film reminds us of the talented and dedicated people whose commitment to public service enables American political and economic success in the world.

"America's Diplomats" is produced by the Foreign Policy Association, the national organizer of Great Decisions.
