

Nicole Hofert

Nicole Hofert is the City of Wyoming's city planner, where she manages planning and development projects as well as several citizen boards and commissions. Since joining the City in 2018, she has been instrumental in bringing community members together to help develop Wyoming [re]Imagined, the city's new Master Plan. Her work focuses on building relationships between diverse stakeholders, like residents, business owners, and developers, to facilitate community-oriented growth. Before her work in Wyoming, she was a private-sector planner advising municipalities on comprehensive and master planning after graduating from the London School of Economics with a master's degree in city design.